SOCIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

As of now, the current action plan that has been discussed among our department is trying to sort out what program outcome that our classes assess. We currently have several classes offered by social science that are geared towards measuring more than one program learning outcomes. It was expressed by one of the Social Science instructors that one course has the ability to assess more than one PLO. However, it would seem that if one course was to measure more than one learning objective would require multiple assessment tools just from one class alone. Therefore the action plan is as followed:

- One program objective per course
- A consensus of which course will assess which specific PLO
- Development of Assessment tool that aligns with the PLO's and ILO's
- A summative assessment tool for the overall performance of the program

Note: The department is also planning to look at courses to remove and possibly add on for the new catalog.
