Halfway There 😊

Congratulations on reaching the halfway mark! After the awesome spring break you just had, you should be more than ready to get back into the swing of things. If you didn't do anything eventful or exciting, I'm sure the week off of school was a much appreciated break! Now that you're back, put your thinking cap on and try to continue to stay on top of your studies. Its more important for you to stay ahead from here on. The decisions you make from now on, will affect the outcome of your grades. So please, keep pushing, now isn't the time to lose focus, but rather a time to assert yourself in class, and with your studies. Take a break from Facebook to review your notes, or do some research. You can never learn too much!

ASCC Phi Theta Kappa Honors
Society Inducts New Members for Spring 2013

By James Kneubuhl

The American Samoa Community College (ASCC) chapter of the prestigious Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) Honors Society has inducted eight new members for the spring 2013 semester. With chapters at community and junior colleges across the United States and its territories, Phi Theta Kappa recognizes and encourages excellence in scholarship among associate degree students. The Greek words Phi Theta Kappa mean wisdom (Phi), aspiration (Theta) and purity (Kappa). The society bases its programs on its four hallmarks: scholarship, leadership, service and fellowship.

The PTK welcomed its new members into its ranks during this semester's induction ceremony held this past Friday, March 8th, with the theme "Good as Gold", inspired by the Robert Frost poem "The Road Less Traveled." The ceremony featured as special guest speaker Dr. Oreta Mapu Crichton, who has enjoyed a long and distinguished career locally in the fields of education and social service, and now serves as a Senior Policy Advisor for the American Samoa Government.

Dr. Crichton began her talk by referencing the aforementioned Frost poem, and how it expresses the struggle with doubt that comes with making hard choices. "Remember," she advised the audience, "that the wisdom of the world is most valuable when it bows to the wisdom of God." Dr. Crichton went on to share her experiences as a young Samoan growing up in the state of Louisiana during the years leading up to the Civil Rights Movement. As the only "person of color" in her high school, her faith was continually tested, and not only got her through very hard times of feeling alienated, but also gave her the courage to befriend the first African-American student to attend her high school after federal law required that it become integrated.

Following Dr. Crichton's speech, PTK inductees Angela Amata, Seonghee Hong, Ulysses Hopkinson, Yeseul Kang, Salani Leota, Zarahemla Mamea, Nyrese Pato and Sharma Sapolu performed the ritual of lighting candles to symbolize the flame of knowledge and took the oath of allegiance to the PTK. The evening also featured a musical performance by PTK alumni Ms. Tonya Tuigamala and closing remarks from PTK advisor Evile Feleti.

Each semester, PTK Head Advisors Toaiva Fiame-Tago works with fellow advisors Evile Feleti, Anthony Felise, Kuki Tuiasosopo, Evelyn Fruean and Athena Mauga review the ASCC Dean's List and other relevant data to determine which students qualify for the membership in the Society. At ASCC, PTK nominees must have taken at least 12 credits, passed their English 150, English 151 and Math 90 classes, and have earned a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or higher. Qualifying students receive an invitation to join PTK, and most of those invited readily accept the offer. During last week's ceremony, PTK President Marietta Lafaele also paid tribute to the late Jim Sutherland, a longtime advisor who helped establish the Society at ASCC. "For all future inductions, Jim's name will be included on the program as an Emeritus advisor," said Lafaele.

Besides Lafaele, other members this semester include Temo Ledua, Vice President, Logistics; Tofagaoalii La'a, Vice President, Public Relations; Mona Chang, Secretary; Grace Felise, Treasurer; Siu Niupulusu, PR Secretary; Easter Kim, Hine Pei, Tuulalo Farani, Scott Manning, Peniamina Tai'i, Fa'afetai Ifopo, Moya Bejer, Krystal Kupa, Wittenberg Mariner, Pearl Sheck, Mary Cheung Fuk, Fiaai Robert Moliga, Maria Magalasin, Randall Fitisone, Tae il Kim and Tala Ropeti.

Phi Theta Kappa provides more than $35 million worth of scholarships annually to students nationwide. Each member is automatically nominated for inclusion in the prestigious National Dean's List, and is also enrolled in the PTK Transfer Database, which links senior institutions across the nation offering scholarships to PTK members.

ASCC/SSS Hosts Oceans

Advocate Chase

By James Kneubuhl

The Student Support Services (SSS) division at the American Samoa Community College hosted a unique presentation by endurance waterman/ocean advocate Bruckner Chase last week. Among other things, he heads Bruckner Chase Ocean Positive, Inc. a non-profit organization whose mission is to positively impact how we feel, think and act towards our oceans. "I have found the best way to do that is by making that connection personal for those I meet", said Chase, "and showing them how to take action to help themselves, their community and the oceans we all share." One of Chase's own personal connections to the ocean is his mastery of endurance swimming, which has enabled him to complete long-distance swims between distances such as Aunu'u to Utulei Beach.

Currently visiting American Samoa under a Hollings Grant from the National Marine Sanctuary Foundation that is also supported by the National Marine Sanctuary of American Samoa, Chase is filming a documentary that focuses on sharing the fa'asamoa and the Samoan connection to the islands and the oceans with the rest of the world. His talk to the SSS students of course had much to do with oceans and their importance, but also focused on the lesson's he has learned through his long experience with them. His main theme was how learning leads to knowledge and knowledge leads to possibilities that we may never imagine in advance. "I told stories of my own life growing up in Memphis, leading to my becoming a matai in Amerika Samoa," he explained. "We spend our lives preparing and learning so that we are ready for those amazing opportunities that will be presented to us. I also talked about not letting fear stop us from taking the next step. I said that I am often afraid before big swims, but fear is a great motivator that can drive us to learn and prepare to accomplish great things."

Chase, who previously organized the Toa o le Tai Ocean Heroes Lifeguard Competition last May, was introduced to the SSS by ASCC student Mona Chang, a previous Toa o le Tai participant currently volunteering as an SSS tutor. "When Mona told me about the SSS and invited me to speak I was incredibly grateful for the opportunity", said Chase. "I spend a lot of time working with youth and adults, and I am especially attracted to organizations that expand on the capacities and opportunities of our youth." Recognized as a friend to American Samoa with the requisite distinction to be honored with the matai title Uila o le Sami by High Talking Chief Fuiava of Aunu'u, Chase has expressed his veneration for the traditional relationship between Samoans and the sea, and his hopes for the continuation of this relationship despite rapidly-changing times. "I see tremendous strength and potential in Amerika Samoa's youth," he said. "If they learn more about the ocean and how to safely be in, on and around it, then they can not only help protect the waters that provide for them, but also create new opportunities for careers and life work."

SSS Director Repeka Alaimoana-Nuusa joined her staff and students in expressing their appreciation for Chase's knowledgeable and enthusiastic perspective on a life-giving resource many of us take for granted. "When you consider what an important role Samoans' relationship to the sea has played in our history, with the vast knowledge we once possessed of sailing, navigating and fishing, it's very encouraging to hear Bruckner reaffirm the importance of the oceans to our current lives", she said. "I think we have an aptitude for many different ocean-related skills in our genes, but we just need to re-connect with them." Alaimoana-Nuusa also noted that after Chases' talk several SSS students expressed an interest in joining the Toa o le Tai swimming program.

Chase especially raised the interest of the SSS students when he mentioned how in many ways Samoa has set an example of a successful interaction between a culture and its surrounding oceans. "I was excited to share how others that I talk to about Amerika Samoa are fascinated by the culture here, and they want to connect and help as well", he said. "After visiting here, I always leave energized to share these experiences with others around the world who I think can learn a great deal from how Samoans connect to their communities, the islands and the oceans."
